FRIDAY FACTS.

The reason that the gas light at the corner of Madison avenue and Fourth street is burning these dark nights is given that the people in the neighborhood are paying for it.

E. J. Rix received a dispatch yesterday announcing the death of his sister, Mrs. A. W. Richardson at Alden, Iowa. Mr. Rix left for that place this morning to attend the funeral. Mr. and Mrs. Rix has just returned home Saturday.

In the Chickering piano contest the counting of ballots today showed the Christ Lutheran church to be in the lead; followed by the Eastern Star lodge, the Methodist church, and Misses Loucks, Gibson, Redmond and others. Interest is developing in the contest.

The Durland Trust company are moving their office back into the old location on the north side of Main street, which has been thoroughly rebuilt since the fire which destroyed practically the whole of the interior. Since the fire their office has been on the second floor of the Mast block.

This is May day, and some of the young folks have not permitted the chilling blasts to interfere with its observance, but have prepared their baskets and will deliver them tonight though the temperature falls below zero. Such is the determination of the Nebraska youth of which Norfolk has not a few.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Hayes last evening, a reception was tendered by the Ladies Guild of Trinity church to Rev. and Mrs. J. C. S. Wells. Mr. and Mrs. Wells have but recently returned from their wedding trip, and from 8 to 10 last night a number of their friends called to welcome them home and extend congratulations.

Mrs. O. J. Johnson sprained her ankle yesterday. She was standing on the icy walk at the door of her mother-in-law's house talking with that lady, and when she started to leave for her own home she slipped and fell, sustaining a badly sprained ankle. A physician was called who dressed the wound and placed the patient in as comfortable condition as possible.

A letter from A. B. Beall, who was to talk to the Commercial club at a meeting called for Monday night, announces that it will be impossible for him to be here that night on account of a matter which has come up since the meeting was arranged for. As a discussion of the Auditorium proposition was the only matter to be considered, the meeting has been indefinitely postponed.

The Dexter cold storage plant shipped its sixth car of eggs since the season opened, this week. The firm has now about eight carloads in storage here, which, including the eggs shipped, represents the business done since the season opened. The firm pays out on the average of $100 a week to the farmers of the vicinity for their eggs, and will continue to do so until the season closes.

At the meeting of the Nebraska State Homeopathic society in Lincoln resolutions were adopted yesterday morning petitioning Governor Mickey to recognize that school in the appointment of superintendent of the Norfolk hospital for the insane. Dr. Frederick F. Teal of Omaha, formerly superintendent of the hospital, was in attendance at the meeting and was elected a member of the board of censors for three years.

The last few days of April were all that saved the month's reputation as a period of rain and shower, and but for the precipitation of the last few days, the month would have been dry and below the average for a long number of years, but beginning with Monday night the weather man started in to redeem the reputation of the month and succeeded in placing it considerably above the average. The amount of rainfall up to Monday was little more than an inch, but since then 2.46 inches have fallen, making the total 3.52 inches.

The proceedings of the third annual meeting of the Nebraska Ornithologists' union are in print and can be obtained by addressing the editor, Robert H. Wolcott, Lincoln, Neb. The contents include paper on permanent and transitory birds of Nebraska, their habits, haunts, nesting, food, etc., by contributors in various parts of the state. The most conspicuous paper is by E. H. Barbour of Lincoln on the progenitors of birds, which traces their evolution through different geological eras and along scientific lines from the primitive fish and reptile. The article, which occupies some thirty pages of the proceedings, is profusely illustrated with reproductions of fossil types, representing the different stages adown which our modern birds have traveled in their long journey of evolution. The proceedings are attractively illustrated with photographs of Nebraska birds, their nests and habitats, taken from life. The papers and reports cover 200 pages.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

Methods of Dr. Lorenz of Vienna Prove to be of Great Value.

Prof. Adolph Lorenz, the famous Vienna surgeon, has returned to this country to remove the casts from the patients operated upon for congenital dislocation of the hip joint during his recent visit, some of which were witnessed by Dr. P. H. Salter of this city.

In not a single case was the operation a failure. The cramped condition in which the limbs have been held by the cast and the bindings for the past five months prevented the children from walking at once and when they do walk they have a slight limp, which wears away as the unused muscles strengthen with exercise. Dr. Lorenz will remain in Chicago for several weeks, during which time he will give the Armour child massage treatment that will hasten her recovery, but he announces that he will perform no new operations.

ONE SALOON NOT TO OPEN

Man Who Bargained for It Has Not Appeared.

SCHMID IS UNKNOWN QUANTITY

Said to Have Made Tracks for Oklahoma With Family and Household Goods—Henry Hasenpflug Has Two Sets of Fixtures on Hand.

George Schmid, who had bargained for the saloon that has been recently run by Henry Hasenpflug in the Eble building, and who was to have been in Norfolk today to start business, may just now be represented by the letter x as he is an unknown quantity that is being solved for.

Schmid formerly lived at Fullerton and was to move to Norfolk this week. Today he should have taken possession of the bar on Norfolk avenue. He failed to do either. Instead, he is said to be tracking for Oklahoma with his family and household goods.

Henry Hasenpflug is the heaviest loser. He had arranged to sell the fixtures and bought new for the Turf exchange, so that he has two sets of bars on his hands and one place to put them. He will not continue with business in the Eble building and it may be closed. Schmid had published his application for liquor license and made every preparation. It is thought that he became frightened at his prospects.

The annual stockholders meeting of The Norfolk Building and Loan Association will be held at the secretary's office Wednesday evening, May 6, 1903, at 8 o'clock p. m. for the election of directors for the ensuing year.

TEMPERATURE CONTINUES LOW.

Effects of the April blizzard are still Apparent.

The effect of the April blizzard was still apparent in Norfolk today. The temperature did not warm appreciably during yesterday and last night there was another freeze placing a thin scum of ice over standing water and slightly freezing the surface of the ground.

This morning the wind was from the south, but continued cold and cheerless during the day. The freeze last night probably completed the damage to growing things, and especially to fruit, that was not accomplished by the blizzard and the freeze of the night following. Some snow was still in evidence today in shady places where the sun was not able to exert its whole influence toward removal.

It is probable that some of the fruit has not yet been damaged owing to its late development. That in blossom and fully budded is certainly damaged beyond recall, but some of the late buds may yet develop.

Garden stuff and crops do not appear to be greatly injured, having apparently been protected by the warmth of the soil and the moisture, still the full results of the freeze will not be apparent until the atmosphere is thoroughly warmed. The chilly weather has undoubtedly served to protect rather than damage vegetation, for if the sun had shown hot immediately following the freeze it would assuredly have created inestimable injury. The weather forecast is for fair and warmer and it is to be hoped that the warmth will come before another chance is afforded for a freeze tonight.

The telephone company succeeded in making connections with Stanton this afternoon at 2:30, which is the first outside town to be restored to telephonic communication and the only one yet connected. A gang of linemen under Harry Wright was started out toward Sioux City this morning but only succeeded in repairing a mile and a quarter of the line during the forenoon, which indicates the condition of the toll lines.

The Western Union telegraph company secured connections with Omaha this afternoon for the first time since the storm.

Norfolk, having been isolated for more than two days, will appreciate getting in touch with the world again.

Never Too Late To Mend

A good old maxim, but not always true.
